Introduction

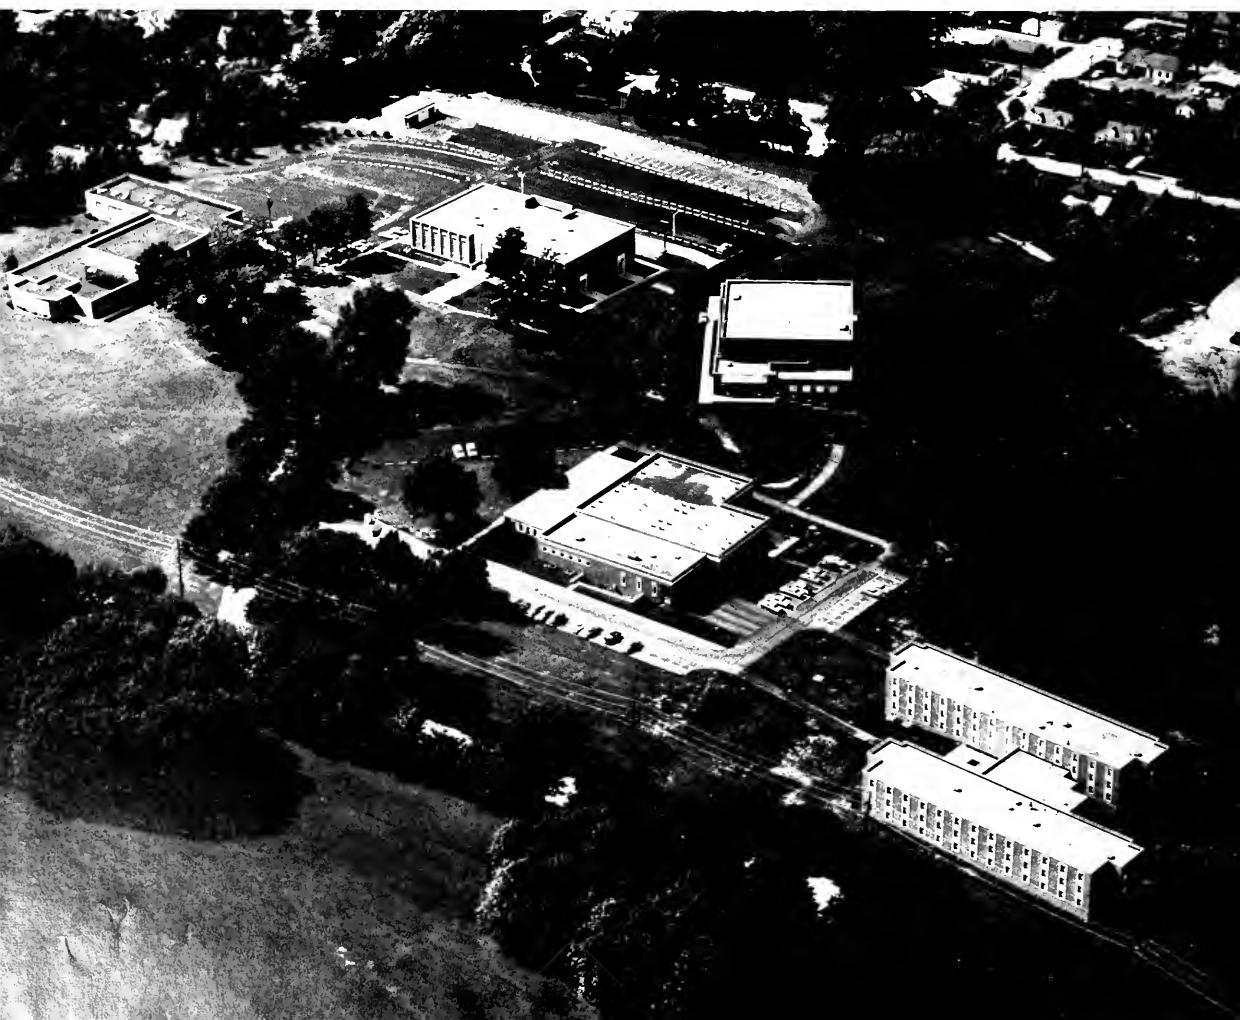

Saturday, October 2, 1965, was a day that will forever glow in the history of York Junior College — a day when all the past experiences of a fast-developing college were climatically fused in the simple reflections, appropriate remarks, and humble prayers of men. On this dedication day, the campus stood at the zenith of its glory, its buildings decked in their sparkling newness, while all the beauty of a clear autumn day filled the atmosphere.

Dedication implies more than just the formal opening of buildings. Within the concept are significant elements without which its meaning could not be justified. For behind a dedicated institution of learning there are dedicated men and women, dedicated to the recognition that higher education is of supreme value to the molding of human character. We appreciate the Administration of our institution, dedicated to endless service and untiring devotion; the Faculty, dedicated to the dispersion of knowledge and the refinement of thought; and the Community, as the progenitor of our institution.

Recognizing the elements that reflect a dedicated institution, the Horizon staff wishes to present a pictorial review of this year of dedication, 1965-1966.

It's midnight and "all's well" after the skirmish on second floor north.

The New Men's Dormitory Opens September 7, '65

It's a spacious addition to Lower Campus.

SPRINGETTSBURY HALL IS HOME FOR THE COEDS

Unlike many community colleges, York Junior College provides for its men and women students outside of York County attractive living facilities on campus. Both dormitories for men and women are modern and well-planned for the convenience and comfort of students. The women's dormitory enjoys the proctoring of Mrs. Edmondson this year, while Mr. and Mrs. George Still serve as dorm parents in the newly completed Men's Dormitory. Plans for more dormitory facilities are in the making as York Junior College looks ahead to becoming a four-year institution.

Beyond the bridge and the willow-lined stream is the Girls' Dormitory.

The notorious "bull sessions" in Room 222. Barbara Korte, Carol Boyd, Leslie Milne, Barbara Eister.

Mrs. Charlotte Graves and Mrs. Marguerite Edmondson preside over Springettsbury Hall.

Aluminum design in entrance is symbolic of modern architectural style.

Clean, shiny glass doors swing open to the newly constructed Student Center. The modern structure contains a cafeteria, which can be transformed into a dance floor for the more formal occasions, and a student lounge, spacious and quite beautifully decorated with stylish furniture and colorful decor. At its entrance are found a receptionist unit and the office of the president.

The lower floor contains the Public Relations offices, the Yorker office, the Horizon office, the Student Senate office, and a joint conference room. For student recreation, there are a game room and a popular spot — Dutchmen's Pub. Around the corner are the Admissions office and lounge, the office of the Dean of Women, the Business Affairs offices. At the building's rear is a fully-equipped College Book Store, where text books, pleasure-reading paper backs, and collegiate materials provide adequately for the students' miscellaneous needs. Indeed, this new building is the hub of much student activity.

A Greek philosopher once said that "mind and body go hand in hand." Books and lectures give mental stimulation, while physical exertion enlivens the body. Bar bells, wall weights, a bicycling exerciser, and a four-foot punching bag, presently found in YJC's newly added Health Room, provide the needed rapport between mind and body for all students who are interested in physical fitness.

York Hall represents classes — our Center of Learning.

New Maintenance Building was constructed this past summer.

Day custodians: Lou Achaj, John Miller, Lloyd Shumaker.

Library services are augmented by art exhibits and the Farquhar collection.

The Library Is Focal Point of Academic Campus Activity

Central among the educational facilities is the Library with its rapidly growing accessions. An efficient staff under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Atwood is constantly at hand to aid students in research and reference work among the 30,000 volumes.

This year students have an audio-visual room and a listening room to help meet the demands for deeper insight into various studies. A microfilm unit contains eighteen different magazines, including two years of New York Times and all of the editions of the Atlantic Monthly since 1870. In addition, there are more than one hundred other periodicals in bound and paper form. Typing cubicles are also available for students the second semester.

Librarians: Mrs. Elsie Dressel, Mrs. Dorothy Lagunowich, Mrs. Margo Atwood, Mrs. Joyce Johnson, Mrs. Inez Hollingshead, Mrs. Charlotte Brougher, Mrs. Katherine Dreyer.

RECESSATIONAL

President Dr. Ray A. Miller Welcomes Governor Scranton

A TRIBUTE TO DR. MILLER:

On behalf of the Middle States Association and its Commission on Institutions of Higher Education, I bring greetings to York, this pert, young college whose catalogue of achievements outruns its years, lending eloquent testimony to the magical wonder of community partnership and pride, academic integrity, and judicious perceptive leadership.

We extend congratulations to York, both Town and Gown, and on a note of shared triumph, pin upon Dr. Miller a big and beautiful orchid — no, I don't mean an orchid at all — I mean the Royal White Rose of York.

The Board of Trustees, as the governing board, is responsible for maintaining the fundamental character of the college, selecting a president to direct its operation, advising that president on major issues, conserving and developing the institution's resources.

The Board members represent the founder, the constituency of the college and the public. They hold the property and assets of the college in trust for those who provide and maintain them. It is their task to see that the college becomes and is what it is intended to be; that it fulfills the purposes for which it was founded.

Over 1800 Persons Attend Dedication Ceremony

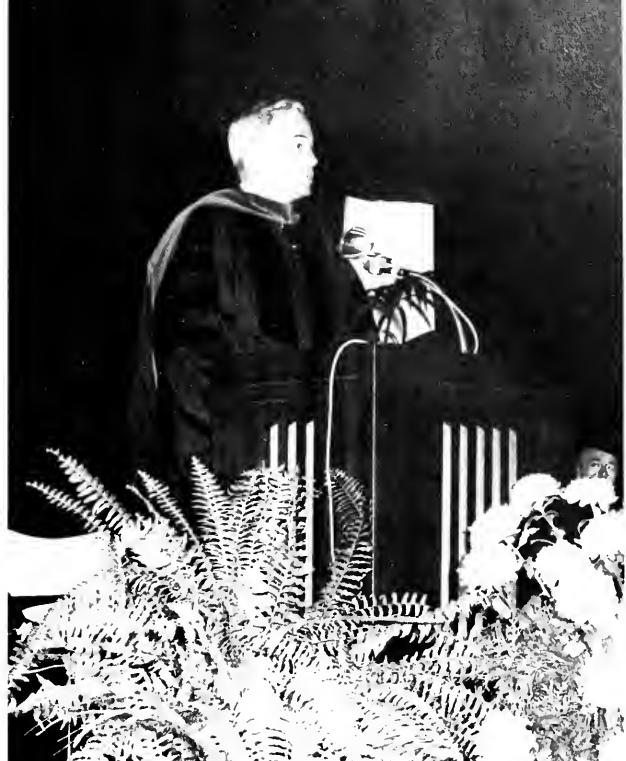

Dedication Day, the most significant event of the 1965-1966 college year, centered around a formal ceremony held in the gymnasium. A touch of pageantry filled the air as an academic procession entered to the stirring processional march. Administrators, trustees, honor students, faculty, and platform dignitaries were donned in caps and gowns and colorful college degree insignia. The Honorable William W. Scranton, Governor of Pennsylvania, praised the amazing progress and physical growth that York Junior College has made in its short history. Here, in pictorial sequence, we recall that important day.

Dr. Miller extends a cordial welcome.

In Liberal Arts — Projecting the Past

WHAT IS THE GOAL OF THE LIBERAL ARTS DEPARTMENT?

To develop students who are well-informed, well-rounded individuals is the goal of the liberal arts division. The purposes of such curricula are to give knowledge and encourage the pursuit of wisdom. Knowledge and wisdom work together, for wisdom is the personal interpretation and application of knowledge. The liberal arts department is a combination of the languages, fine arts, and social sciences. They form a solid foundation for further investigation, specialization, and the study of man.

SOCIAL SCIENCE INSTRUCTORS: Miss Phyllis Habermann, Dr. James R. Harnett, Leonid Murog, Dr. Philip C. Marshall. STANDING: Carlton B. Smith, Thompson J. McCullough, Robert H. Terry.

ART INSTRUCTORS: Mrs. Justine Landis and Mrs. Phyllis Chisler comment on the work being done by James Iannone.

DIRECTOR OF VISUAL AIDS: Miss Laramey Laramie.

Each area in the Liberal Arts department encourages students to gain more insight into their respective interest. On campus, Mr. DeVanGuardia lectured on aspects of world culture. Mr. Khanna spoke on native customs in India.

An art exhibit each month in the West Wing of the library attracted students and persons in the community.

A new venture, "Learning Unlimited," was organized for the YJC commuting students.

In addition, trips were planned to Washington to visit national points of interest, and to nearby cities to attend theatrical and musical performances.

PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY INSTRUCTORS: SEATED: Thomas W. Treadwell, Mrs. Ruth Katherman, Mrs. Carmen Owen, Bradley Culbertson. STANDING: Dr. Everett Beckman, Robert Terry, Thomas Narus.

MUSIC INSTRUCTORS: Ralph C. Woolley, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Jones.

Testing Theories for an Atomic

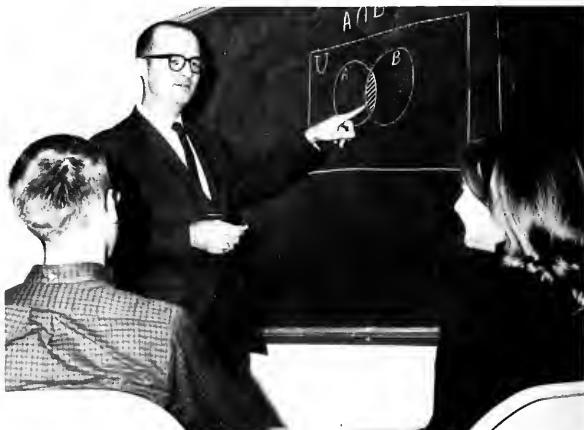

WHAT'S NEW IN THIS DEPARTMENT?

The science and mathematics students found a variety of new equipment and facilities awaiting them this year. Biology students could observe tropical and temperate zone fish in two new aquariums. A terrarium containing several lizards is also on display. Students of the anatomy and physiology classes were able to use the Kymograph to study muscle contraction and nerve impulses of the frog. In the general biology laboratory the dissection of the fetal pig and the demonstration by Mr. King of the Geiger counter were two interesting highlights.

In the advanced chemistry courses this year, several new instruments were helpful in the identification of components. The analytical students used the UV spectrophotometer to identify elements, and they used a series of "ion" exchange resins for chemical analysis. The gravitometer and refractometer aided organic students in the identification of liquids.

The college has not neglected the importance of mathematics in the advanced and empirical age, as it provides numerous courses for the interested student, ranging in studies from the "modern mathematics" to the more advanced studies in Analytical Geometry and Calculus.

Modern Math students: Patrick Campbell, Elizabeth List.

Business Administration — Looking Ahead to

WHAT IS THE AIM OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION?

Expert training for a business career is the major aim of the Business Administration division. A student desiring transfer to a school of business finds York Junior College adequately preparing him to make the transition.

Training in three major fields is involved in the Business Administration program: (1) Exact subject matter, which is concerned with the many varied marketable skills, (2) The importance of human relationship, since the well-rounded individual is an asset in any business organization, and (3) the undertaking of responsibilities and the adjustment to the many situations of life.

In business, majors may select fields of Accounting, including Business Organization and Management during the freshman year, and Money and Banking in the sophomore year. A major in Business Management could add such diversified courses as General Psychology and Elementary Accounting in his freshman year as well as advanced courses in those areas in his sophomore year. The last division in Business Administration is Secretarial studies, which encompasses Executive and Medical Secretarial training.

An additional feature which has attracted many Business Administration majors is the Data Processing program. Presented by the IBM center, a course entitled "Introduction to Data Processing" is required the last semester.

Offering a varied program concerning all aspects of life which an individual will be faced with in today's business world is the objective of the Business Administration Department.

Evening student operates IBM 1620 Electronic Computer.

One of the fascinating machines to operate and watch is the card sorter.

Lois Watters is not only an efficient typist, but a charming secretary.

Automation

Mr. Seligman finds the opaque projector a great aid in the accounting laboratory.

Academic and Business Staff

DEAN OF ACADEMIC AFFAIRS: Fred C. Smith, Mrs. Edith Lookingbill, Mrs. Ronnie Bacsik.

The Student Center is the place where Mr. Williams, the college bursar, directs his staff of workers.

At all hours of the day students, custodians, salesmen, or business men can be found standing at the business office window. Any financial problem related to bills, government aid programs, loans, purchases, or checks will be answered by the Business Office staff.

York Hall is our symbol of knowledge: the classroom and the laboratory. It is the place where teacher and student meet in a quest for facts, for the give-and-take in the exchange of ideas. York Hall offers all the modern facilities for an education: well-equipped laboratories for the sciences and languages; comfortable classrooms for lectures and the use of visual aids. The Dean of Academic Affairs, Mr. Fred Smith, presides over York Hall. He handles students' academic problems, as well as the class schedules of students.

BUSINESS STAFF: Alfred F. Williams, J. David Eisenhart, Mrs. Marguerite Lauer, Mrs. Marion Bubb.

ADMISSION'S DIRECTOR: Bradley Culbertson, Mrs. Connie Johnessee, Mrs. Janet Brownell.

SECRETARY TO PRESIDENT: Mrs. Marian Kieffer.

Student Activities

Personnel Staff

The Student Affairs Building or better known as the "White House" is the only remaining structure from YJC's past. It stands alone near the entrance of the college. Here, the students are encouraged to take their problems to the Guidance Counselors.

Devotion, efficiency, and understanding typify those employed in the "White House." The secretaries proceed with their assignments in a devoted manner; the records office clerks operate the complex machinery for keeping transcripts of our grades; and the counseling staff will test us to find our aptitudes, listen to our problems and give advice. Instrumental to the student life and activities on the campus is the Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. Claude Gates, whose jobs of counseling in personal problems, settling disputes in the dorms, and initiating student activities, keep him very busy.

DEAN OF WOMEN: Miss Elizabeth Taylor.

In the Student Center on the lower floor is an attractive office presided over by the Dean of Women, Miss Taylor.

Frequently on the hour between classes, girls will be waiting in the adjacent lounge to make an appointment to talk over problems with the Dean.

Miss Taylor also has taken over the adviser's responsibility of the Student Senate. Through this medium, she correlates the activities of the dorm and campus.

GUIDANCE AND WHITE HOUSE PERSONNEL: Dr. Claude L. Gates, Miss Brenda Tarbert, Mrs. Dorothy Root, Mrs. Nancy Knaub, Mrs. Jean Semmehman, Mrs. Ethel Foose, Thomas Treadwell, Mrs. Ruth Landis.

Secretary "Heidi" Levis.

Faculty secretaries: "Sue" Hudson, "Peggy" Yingling

Evening students wire the Control Panel for the IBM 402 Accounting machine.

I.B.M.

From its beginning four years ago the college I.B.M. department, under the direction of Mr. Leo Ruvolis, has grown to be a complete all-purpose system of data processing. The department offers business courses dealing with punch-card equipment, and electronic computer instruction for complete, accurate, and instantaneous solutions of problems for the math student.

In addition to providing instruction in data processing, the I.B.M. department processes most of the administrative records for the college. It works with community agencies and firms in processing the results of projects and surveys. It has also prepared statistical studies of the experimental classroom instruction in Project English.

During Freshman Orientation Week, the I.B.M. department played a new role in campus projects. The names of students, along with additional data about each student, were fed into the I620 computer to select suitable partners for the weekend dance.

The I.B.M. department employs three local men for evening instruction: Leonard Iaria, manager in data processing for P.A. and Small Company; Joseph Cannata and Norman Bell, systems engineers for I.B.M. Corporation.

Development and Public Relations is a new area of endeavor on the campus. With the rapid growth of the College — larger enrollment in day and evening classes, three new buildings this year — it became evident that a plan must be evolved which would meet the present and long range plans of the school.

To head up the new department, Stanton W. Todd, a Michigan businessman with experience at Berea College, Kentucky, and Michigan State University, was selected. Miss Ruth D. Barker, a native of Maryland, was named director of publications, and Miss Ruth E. Gosnell of York continued as college publicist.

PUBLICITY STAFF: Mrs. Betty Z. Stauffer. STANDING: Miss Ruth Barker, Miss Ruth Gosnell, Mrs. Virginia Hess.

Mrs. William H. Stauffer, who has been with the College for four years, serves as secretary to Mr. Todd and helps with publications work. Mrs. John E. Hess, long time employee of the College, assists in all phases of activity.

Current projects of the department include an endowment fund drive so the junior college can become a four year institution, increased service to the community, improvement of publications, and continued study of the future structure and role of the College.

A new experience! And so it began the first semester — with inner feelings of frustration and fear; with outward expressions of thrill and excitement. We knew a deepening experience lay ahead — a year filled with new friends, a year of learning, a year of triumphs and heartaches. We were on "our own" way alone. Most of us knew that the way would be hard, the direction at times would be ambiguous, but an experience in higher education leading to an A.S. degree would be our goal.

Life After Classes

Bill Harrison is waiting for the downbeat.

While dormitory life has its many advantages and disadvantages, one who has experienced such an atmosphere cannot forget the many good times: The "bull sessions," where ideas are verbally expressed and learning occurs equal to that of a classroom in certain areas; hotly contested football games, the interaction of intense spirit between the floors; the late hours and heavy eyes; the challenged opinions; the spontaneous laughter over the many pranks; the counselors with their constant cry, "You've got one warning"; the quiet hour record sessions; and don't forget those enlightening floor meetings. Dormitory life is all this, fused into the complex web of academic pressures of student life.

Campus Life

"The greatness of this institution rests upon the highly personal relationships between its faculty and students. Whether it be a dormitory, among the stacks in the library, or in the Student Union enjoying the most American of refreshment pauses, the coffee break; it is the personal, face to face contacts which count most. A college, at best, is a mutual questing for the purpose of life. Stately pillars ultimately crumble and fall, but the spirit of man is immortal."

Dr. Khanna gives serious contemplation for lecture on India.

Sonia Chronister and Cheryl Reber in a lighter moment of tutoring session.

This was an active year for Phi Theta Kappa. Projects included a lecture by Dr. Sardari Khanna on different facets of life in India, a program for sending soap to our soldiers in South Viet Nam, and a lecture with slides of a European trip by Mr. and Mrs. George Simon.

Concerning campus academic activities, the fraternity sponsored a tutoring program, free of charge, for all students. Through the program, tutoring services were offered in calculus, history, business math, languages, and shorthand.

Kappa Pi is the YJC chapter of the national scholastic fraternity, Phi Theta Kappa. The aims of the fraternity, as stated in its constitution, are "to promote scholarship, to develop character, and to cultivate fellowship . . .". Membership is open to both men and women who attain a cumulative average of 3.4.

Officers for 1965-1966 were Michael Fithian, president; Alan Sommerville, vice-president; Sonia Chronister, secretary; Judith Forker, treasurer; and Lois Watters, senate representative. Miss Peggy Deardorff was faculty adviser.

Social Science Sponsors Two Clubs

Sociology

Under the supervision of Mr. R. H. Terry, the "Group," or the students interested in sociology, organized lectures and scheduled field trips during the first semester.

One of the most interesting lectures was given by Carl A. Carbone of the Drug Control Section, Department of Health, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He clearly explained the problem of drug addiction and its root, mental illness.

The members made an entertaining odyssey to Washington, D.C. to observe Islamic culture in the Islamic Center and the Golden Lotus Temple. On the campus there were lectures, movies, and slides presenting the culture of Israel and an exposition of alcoholism.

Political Science

The Political Affairs Club was organized to encourage student interest in political activities on the state, national and international levels. At the same time it was also organized to promote interest in good student government. The Club serves these purposes by presenting to the student different ideas and concepts of political life and by encouraging discussion and debate on significant topics of the day. With the cooperation of local political leaders, the club functions as an outlet for individual participation in political activities.

Officers for the first semester were President, Carl Resnick; Secretary, Jana Daane; Treasurer, George Fitts.

S.E.A. Membership Largest on Campus

TOYS FOR TOTS: Avery White, Mr. Narus, Sherry Jarman, Douglas Arbetman.

Special projects throughout the year are promoted by the Student Education Association to benefit the college, the community, and the members themselves. S.E.A. sponsored the filling of Thanksgiving baskets for needy families in which the student body and faculty participated. The annual Christmas project of collecting, repairing, and wrapping toys for needy children, was done on a larger scale this year through generous contributions by various stores and residents of the community. In addition to this holiday project, S.E.A. members sang Christmas carols at the Rest Haven Home. The Talent Show sponsored by S.E.A. has become an annual highlight of the college year.

The officers and Mr. Narus, adviser, encourage all students interested in the teaching profession to join and participate in the association's activities.

ROW 1: Tim Snyder, Noel B. Holliday, Wayne Lee, Lane Corbett, Thomas Hibshman, Judy Berkheimer, Renee Urich, Cindy Stoy.

ROW 2: Rick Flamini, Louis Labeck, Joseph Kelly, Dr. Philip C. Marshall.

Do you have a B average or better in Social Science courses for a second semester's work? If so, you are eligible to join the National Honorary Social Science fraternity.

Sigma Tau Sigma is a group dedicated to promote a deeper interest in any area of history at the local as well as the national level. To accomplish this aim, field trips are planned to the Historical Society, Plow Tavern and Gate's House in York, as well as trips to Gettysburg, Lancaster, and Washington D.C. The fraternity also tries to promote student discussions on many present day subjects of interest.

The fraternity is under the direction of Dr. Philip C. Marshall, who believes that the students should do the work themselves to promote group participation.

SIGMA TAU SIGMA OFFICERS: Joe Kelly, vice president; Cindy Stoy, secretary; Tom Hibshman, program chairman; absent, Noel Holliday, president.

Dr. Marshall heads the discussion group.

Dean Fred Smith; William H. Bushnell, Jr. Executive Director of Center Stage Baltimore; Richard N. Gage, Director of Allenberry Theater.

Wille B. Morgan, YJC Director; Emile O. Schmidt, Producer and Director of the Gettysburg Summer Theatre; Tom R. Prather Director of the Arena House, Harrisburg.

The Footlighters opened their season in November with an arena production of the delightful comedy THE WHITE SHEEP OF THE FAMILY. A performance of the play was also included in the program of the fourth annual Drama Seminar for high school coaches and students which was attended by almost 200 guests. The afternoon session of the seminar featured a panel of four professional theater directors who discussed decentralized professional theatre in the United States and their own companies. In April we sponsored our third Drama Festival for high schools in the area.

Several oral hours were presented each semester by students in speech and oral interpretation classes.

THE YORKER staff was composed of students from the Introduction to Journalism course, offered for the first time this year at YJC. Besides learning the fundamentals of reporting and writing for a newspaper, the staff also acquired skill in copyreading and proofreading stories, and in lay-out of a paper.

THE YORKER itself featured a new face. Different kinds of type, headlines, and bold print were used to accommodate the variety of stories supplied by reporters. Biweekly assignments were boosted by the news staff, and reporters worked to get in stories before deadline. The staff, as usual, covered convocations, social and sports events, club meetings, and anything else that was newsworthy. Editorials, letters-to-the-editor, and profiles of teachers and students were also a vital part of THE YORKER. Two new columns, "On and Off Campus" and "Music Trends," were also featured.

Phi Delta Phi fraternity had a busy year. The first activity was the Orientation Week mixer in which Phi Del co-operated with the college administration to acquaint the freshmen with the campus.

For the Inter-fraternity Council weekend, Phi Del and Chi Del jointly sponsored the Halloween costume party. The boys showed their cooperative spirit by ushering for the Messiah Concert and the Roof Top Singers. In December, the Holiday Inn of York was the site of the annual Dinner Dance.

The last activities for the first semester were the March of Dimes Dance and the Heart Fund Drive. For the Heart Fund, the boys really filled up the container for Eunice Ailes, their choice for the queen.

ΛΣΧ

Lambda Sigma Chi was founded in 1941, thus it is the oldest sorority on YJC's campus. Since that time, the sorority has rendered many services to the school and the community. The sorority has now adopted the motto: "To our college and community — a future in service; a past of achievement."

This year the girls collected books to send to servicemen in Vietnam, ushered for the concert and lecture series, sponsored the Halloween Dance, packed a Christmas basket for a needy family, collected for UNICEF, and entertained handicapped children at Easter.

As in all organizations, there isn't work without fun. A group picnic, dinner party, and Christmas party were the highlights of the past year.

Miss Moore, adviser, listens to suggestions.

Officers preparing for the next meeting: Toni Longenecker, Kathy Leeper, Donna Ness.

Pledges make dolls for Orphan's Home: Andrea Young, Linda Sibol, Diana Hoke, Pam Ness, Sue Clark.

Chi Delta Chi has a membership of thirty-five active serious girls. Although they comprise only a small percentage of the student body, they have proved to be a valuable asset to York Junior College.

As a social group they have organized student-faculty teas, dances, and have ushered at various college functions. As an altruistic group they have sponsored fund-raising activities for the school library, and have also taped books for the blind.

These girls function as one of the most closely knit groups on campus.

S.A.M.

In cooperation with the Labor Economics classes, S.A.M. heard the talk by Mr. Clair Tozer representing the United Steelworkers of America. His topic was LABOR'S VIEW OF MANAGEMENT. At the following meeting, Mr. Ross Welch, personnel director of P.H. Gladfelter Paper Co., addressed the organization on MANAGEMENT'S VIEW OF LABOR.

Dr. Noel P. Laird
Co-adviser

1965-66 was a year of reorganization for the Society for the Advancement of Management. A unique feature of the new constitution is a mid-year election of officers. This election not only develops a fuller student participation in the society, but it also provides for a continuity of organization from year to year. The York Junior college chapter has the distinction of being the first chapter established among junior colleges.

S.A.M. is not dedicated to the proposition of "all work and no play." S.A.M. held a successful rock and roll dance the first semester, attended by approximately 250 students. During the second semester S.A.M. will have a dinner dance.

Newman Club

The purpose of Newman Club is a concern for all activities which contribute to the development of the natural man and the healthy community.

At this juncture of history, Newman is particularly interested in all ecumenical endeavors. It is always prepared to work with all religious and other campus groups. As a student organization, Newman hopes to supplement campus life by providing for some of the religious, educational, and social needs of the students. The name Newman is taken from the club's founder Cardinal John Henry Newman, a nineteenth century scholar and religious leader in England.

This semester club activities included speakers as well as a Christmas party. A long list of activities heads the agenda for the club's second year operation. It is open to all students, mainly Catholics who are interested in learning more about their faith in a non-classroom atmosphere.

Mountaineering Club

The YJC Mountaineering Club was formed last fall semester by Tom Cook and Larry Johnson. The purpose of the club is to instruct members in the methods of ice and rock climbing. The club instruction course is divided into three parts: free climbing, artificial climbing, and mountain rescue.

The club has been climbing in Pa., Maryland, and New York. It has also been represented in Vermont, Mass., New Hampshire, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Climbs are usually held once a week. Out of state climbs are planned for advanced members twice a semester.

STANDING: Jeanne Kelly, Judy Carter, Paulette Young, Sue Ellen Lefkowitz, Ginger Garrett, Mrs. Brubaker. SEATED: Judi Perlman, Jane Fritzsche, Linda Hassler, Joyce Pawling, Joanne Snyder, Jeanne Glossner.

Y Club:

The "Y" Club, a service organization, is open to all women students. In serving the community, the club had the opportunity to visit the Children's Home where some members volunteered to work with the children. The club has invited speakers to the campus with topics on Vietnam, Red China, and racial problems. The "Y" Club was also an initiator for a Coffee House at the nearby Colonial Shopping Center.

The Foreign Language Club became a newly organized campus organization during the fall semester. The club is open to all the language students who are interested in broadening their knowledge of a particular country.

Meetings are held once a month at which time films are shown, folk songs are sung, and discussion groups are formed.

Since this initial meeting was held during the Christmas season, the group enjoyed singing Christmas carols in the different foreign languages.

Student Senate Promotes All Campus Activities

Ben Cochoo, a student from the Phillipines, admires the Christmas tree in the Men's Dormitory lobby.

The Student Senate is the governing organization elected by and representing the student body. Beside the four officers, it consists of four sophomores, six freshmen, and both class presidents. Dean Elizabeth Taylor serves as adviser. The Senate meets once a week in the Conference Room of the Student Center and everyone is invited to attend and participate in the meetings.

The main duty of the Student Senate is to coordinate all campus activities. The Social Committee plans the school's social calendar. Organizations come to the Student Senate for money since its Budget Committee administers the student activity fund. Awards are presented by the Awards Committee to students who rendered outstanding services to the college. All school-wide elections are conducted by the Senate, and complaints and suggestions from the student body are taken to Dean Gates.

The Student Senate sponsors many social events to keep the dorm students here on weekends and to attract commuters to the campus. Besides showing movies and contacting bands for dances, the Senate entered a float in the Halloween Parade, invited families to the campus for a Parents' Weekend, planned Orientation and Freshmen Week activities, brought the Roof Top Singers to YJC for a concert, and arranged for the Christmas and Spring formals.

SEATED: Krout, Trauber, Cressinger, Hannum, vice president; Minier, president; Watters, secretary; Phillips, Mitchell, Campbell. STANDING: Harris, Ginder, Iannelli. ABSENT: Geier, treasurer; Miller, Young.

Student Convocations

Among the Student Convocations, one of the most popular speakers was humanitarian, musicologist, student of primitive cultures, who learned what it is like to live as a Negro in the Southern states by becoming one. J. Howard Griffin was guest speaker at the Student Convocation September 28th, 1:00 p.m. in the gymnasium.

He was born in 1920, has lived in Texas most of his life, except for school years in France, and war years in the Pacific. He lost his sight for a period of ten years as the result of a wartime injury. The book Scattered Shadows tells the story of his years spent in darkness.

Black Like Me is the title of the book which describes his experiences when, assuming a completely new identity. He lived as a Negro, was accepted as one of them, and learned of the misery, poverty and non-acceptance which dogged their footsteps.

YJC Undefeated in PJCAA League

The York Junior College Flying Dutchmen Basketball team thrust itself into the early lead in the standings for the State Championship by winning the first six league contests. Coached by Jack C. Jaquet and led by sophomores Tom Heckman, Tim Staub, and Captain Ed Cury, the team shows much promise and should prove a serious threat in the upcoming State Tournament held this year at YJC.

York's move to bigger and better competition this year was highlighted by the addition of the University of Pennsylvania Frosh. The experience gained by playing top college and junior teams will help YJC in its quest for the 1965-66 P.J.C.A.A. League Crown.

Although the team now supports a won-lost log of 9-7, six of the nine victories have come at the expense of league foes.

With only two conference teams to play, which York already defeated on the road, YJC appears to be in great shape to conquer the league championship.

Tom Heckman leads the team in rebounding followed closely by 6'5" freshman Marc Muri. The scoring department is headed by Tim Staub and Captain Ed Cury. A trio of freshmen, Bob Evans, Steve Garwick, and Tom Chronister gives YJC one of the strongest junior college teams in the state.

Coach Jaquet has another well-rounded squad and with his fine coaching ability has led York to a record for which it should be proud.

GRIM TAKES FOURTH IN JUNIOR MAT NATIONALS

The freshman topped off his earlier efforts in the MJCAs, where he was named State champion and Regional champion in the 137-pound class, to earn a berth in the Minnesota meet.

YJC's 123 pound Tim Griffiths assisted by Frank O'Brien practices a double leg pick up.

Strong Bodies — Quick Minds

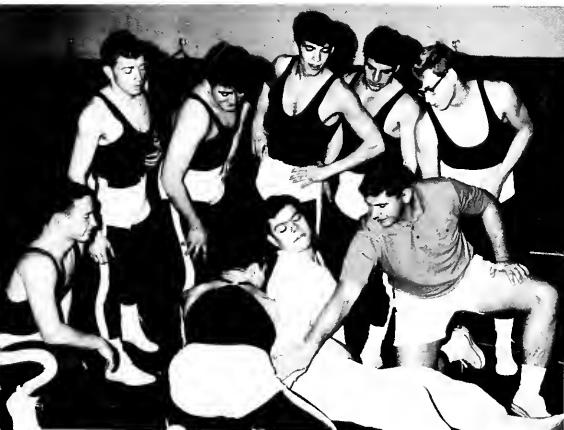

Robert H. Cummings in his first year as wrestling coach has led the squad to three wins in five matches. Three members of the team — 167 pound Co-Captain Dick Alloway, 145 pound Gary Grim, and 137 pound Ron Barndt, are undefeated, while Tim Griffiths sports a 5-1 log.

Since wrestling is relatively a new sport at YJC, the holds and general technique are emphasized in practice as shown in these pictures.

Ken Simpson watches technique of George Schenck as he tries a fireman's carry from a takedown position.

Coach Cummings shows a defensive switch to Simpson and Alloway while the team looks on.

The YJC team, which placed sixth in the region, is composed of Terry Brenneman, Jeff Folkenroth, Tom Manley, Mike Ruby, and Ron Slyder.

First Cross-Country Team Enters Meet

Although York Junior College did not field a formal cross-country team, we did, however, assemble a team of seven men to represent York at the district championship meet held at Van Cortland Park in New York City on November 6, 1965.

Even though the competition of the other colleges was strong, York did manage to place eighth in the overall standings among the twelve other junior colleges that competed.

J.C. runners finished satisfactorily in the standings of eighty men who competed.

The most impressive fact was that the entire York team finished the grueling three mile course. Bob Omlor led York over the finish line in twenty-fourth place.

Dr. Ray A. Miller, President of YJC; The Honorable William W. Scranton, Governor of Pennsylvania; Melvin H. Campbell, Chairman of Executive Committee; Benjamin J. Root, President of YJC Trustees. Thanks to these four people who made the dedication of York Junior College campus a memorable highlight of 1965 - '66.

The 1966 Horizon ends this pictorial sequence with an expression of gratitude to all persons who made this yearbook possible.
